GOAL 1. PROTECTION OF GIRLS RIGHTS FOR SOCIO-ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

To achieve this goal Hope 4 Young Girls organization with the help of its supporters in 2021 provided life skills, Sexual Reproductive Health, gender equality education and formed 10 clubs. The programmes benefited both girls and boys.

- Hope 4 Young Girls provided 400 inspirational books through the Prepare for Life programme to show students vivid examples of girls who have succeeded barriers they faced and how they overcame them so that they can draw lessons from them.
- In order for the rights of young girls to be protected, Hope 4 Young Girls involved community members through outreach programs. These programs were conducted to raise awareness on elimination of child marriages and early pregnancies because they are barriers to girls' education, and they limit them to live to their full potential and social economic development.

GENDER BASED VIOLENCE

Hope 4 Young Girls envisions a nation where all children and women are free and safe from violence.

To make this possible we participated in '16 DAYS OF ACTIVISM' campaign to end gender-based violence from 25th November to 10th December 2021 by placing opinion boxes in 10 schools as a means to create a reporting pathway for students to share their opinions on cases of violence and whatever challenges they are facing that otherwise could be hard for them to speak about

1 CHILD MARRIAGE WAS STOPPED THROUGH THIS CARAVAN.

Young women leaders from 10 organisations call for bold action to end child marriages

By Gadiisa Larstey

Every October 11, the world marks International Day of the Girl Child whereby various stakeholders, including government, CSOs, private sector and individuals raise awareness of the plight of these girls, such as lack of education, marriage under the age of 18, teen pregnancies and various sexual and gender based violence such as rape.

In marking the day this year, 10 young women-led organisations with support from Women Fund Trust Tanzania (WFT-T) have organized an outreach in a caravan style which is carried to 3 regions, starting in Shinyanga, Tabora and end in Dodoma on 11th October, the climax of the commemorative events for the Day of the Girl.

Ten (10) representatives from 10 young feminist organisations are conducting caravan activities to advocate for ending child marriages with particular focus on the rescinding of the Law.

Caravan leaders under Michama Initiative coordination carry the theme, End child marriages. Amend the Law of Marriage Act, inspired by this year's National theme: Digital Generation: Our Generation, where they elucidate on the need to protect girls from all sexual and gender based violence, if at all we are to reap the benefits of bridging the gender digital divide. The campaigners emphasize that in order to reach the digital generation, we must invest in the protection of the girls including from child marriage.

The outreach will involve engagement with the in and out of school spaces (2 primary schools and 2 secondary schools for each region) in Shinyanga and Tabora, then conduct a community dialogue in Bahi, Dodoma.

Media engagement which includes social media is carried out through the week using the ongoing hashtag #NiZaamajiWabunge #NidamaUchumi. Hashtags Sheria Ndoa, Tukuwasa Ndoa na Uchumi.

Caravan activity is derived from the need for young women leaders engaged in girls' issues in their institutions to come together collectively and strengthen the role of young women and women movement in demanding for change and urgently the child marriage issue in their communities.

The need which has led to a two years project (Enhancing Women and Girls' Rights

Youth women leaders ready to travel to the regions of Shinyanga, Tabora and Dodoma to meet various adolescent girls who wish to raise their voices.

Movement through Ending Child Marriages Efforts in Tanzania) funded by the WFT-T and coordinated by the Michama Initiative Organization in collaboration with ten young women led organisations: Hope for Young Girls, ICCAO, Bili Mafika Foundation, Bili Saha Foundation, Open Youth Opportunities, Center for Zero Tolerance, Her Ability Foundation, Mwanazike na Uongoni, Akiyo, Tanzania Youth Vision Association and Bright Future Initiative.

What has been done by Michama Initiative?

The government started the process to implement the Court of Appeal judgment in the case of Attorney General v Babosa Z (Civil Case no 207 of 2017) (2019) TSCAO in Parliament earlier this year, however the presented bill was taken back through the Ministry of Constitutional and Legal Affairs to collect more input from stakeholders including religious and traditional leaders before it is tabled back to the Parliament.

However due to the rapid increase in child marriages each year, there is a need to speed up the process in order to protect the girl child against child marriage. Leaders of these institutions are urging the government to speed up the process as two years have passed since the court ruling.

In addition to urgency, we urge the government and stakeholders to reach out to girls and take their views further as they are the main victims of child marriages, especially those in rural areas due to the challenges they face including walking long distances to school, being given more work and family responsibilities, lack of basic necessities and lack of friendly infrastructure especially in Menstrual Health and Hygiene issues that discourage girls from going to school.

Voices from young leaders in marking the Day

Consista Child Program Manager from Michama Initiative argues that, "There is a strong need to amend the Law so that girls, in and out of school will be protected from child marriages because girls continue to be married off every day we have heard many stories of girls who were forced to be married by their parents in Kibaha district girls said their parents do not appreciate to educate a girl child and prefer to marry them off so that they can get cows as a dowry."

Clara Kabwe from Her Ability Foundation said she met with a student from Naga district who lives with her mother. She said her big dream is to become an editor after graduating but there are some challenges that hold her back academically.

The biggest challenge she faces is that the infrastructure at the school is not friendly to her, for example she is forced to wait until all the classmates go to bed so that she can take a shower outside. "I called the school and the government to help in building that suitable infrastructure to meet the needs of people with disabilities."

Another leader from Bili Saha Foundation Ms Sifa Asia Njoroge commented that "I have learned that we have a lot of work in helping to eradicate various social and economic challenges to bring about change and development for individuals and the nation as a whole."

"We have heard that a number of existing challenges such as girls dropping out of school because of child marriage are compounded by many social but also economic challenges," she said.

On other hand, Shamira Mshaganja, director from Mwanazike na Uongoni, said that we encourage girls to participate in leadership and decision-making from family level as well as economic and political issues. Challenges we face include financial resources. When we go in the field we find girls have many challenges and we are unable to reach them.

"The caravan has given me an opportunity to see the real picture of girls. I learned that the issue of child marriage is not the issue of one person, it is supposed to be the national agenda, and it is true that girls are married at a young age," she said.

Not all the time male parents are the cause of child marriages, in some cases mothers secretly assent to their daughters' marriage. "I am a 16-year-old girl who was married off September 2021, in absence of my father, my mother received 12 cows as my dowry," a narrator is one of the survivors of early marriages.

GOAL 1. PROTECTION OF GIRLS RIGHTS FOR SOCIO-ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

On 6th – 11 October 2021 -

Young women leaders from 10 local organizations including Hope 4 Young Girls conducted a Young Feminist Ending Child Marriage week and travelled in a caravan style to regions that have high rates of child marriages (these are Shinyanga, Tabora and Dodoma) to raise awareness/advocacy on ending child marriages and mobilize girls' voices in the regions.

The activity involved engagement with the in and out-of-school girls (Ilula Primary School, Utwigu Primary School, Mwakipoya Secondary School and Mwanhala Secondary School) in Shinyanga and Tabora regions. And lastly a community dialogue in Bahi-Dodoma was held on 11th October, 2021 to mark the International Day of the Girl Child.

Moreover, to enhance collective advocacy amongst national and grassroots women and girls to demand the government (through the parliament) to table the Bill for the amendment of section 13 and 17 of the Law of Marriage Act, 1971 which allows the girl child to be married before the age of maturity i.e., 18 years.
